About Sayurbox

Across Indonesia, farmers in small villages grow a wide range of fruit and vegetables including kale, papaya and avocado. There is growing demand in urban Indonesia for healthy foods and a wider variety of food choices.

The problem for the farmers was how to distribute their fruit and vegetables quickly and efficiently to meet this demand. 5

In 2016, entrepreneur Rama Notowidigdo used innovation to solve this problem and started Sayurbox. This online platform enabled the farmers to sell their fruit and vegetables directly to homes, restaurants and hotels.

Sayurbox developed a distribution network which allowed the farmers' fruit and vegetables to be packaged and delivered on the same day to most of its online customers. Sayurbox has grown rapidly and now has warehouses around Indonesia for the distribution of its produce. 10

Sayurbox also sells some fruit and vegetables that might not be accepted for sale in grocery stores due to their irregular shape, size or colour. By lowering prices on the imperfect produce, Sayurbox helps the farmers maximise their revenue and minimise food waste. 15

Extract B

Redundancies at Sayurbox as B2C growth slows

Although demand in the B2B market remains strong, sales in the B2C market have not been as high as expected. In 2023, Sayurbox made some of its B2C employees redundant.

Sayurbox stated it would provide redundancy payments as required by the laws of Indonesia and it would help the redundant employees to find new jobs. 5

This is not the first time Sayurbox has made people redundant. In 2022, 5% of its employees in Bali, an island of Indonesia, lost their jobs due to decreased B2C sales.

Extract C

Growth of the global fashion market

The fashion market is a dynamic market and one of the largest markets in the world. New businesses are constantly entering the fashion market to attempt to benefit from its increasing global sales. Womenswear represents 53% of global spending on fashion, menswear is 31% and childrenswear is 16%.

5

Leading fashion brands include:

- Louis Vuitton
- Gucci
- Zara
- H&M
- Uniqlo

10

Louis Vuitton is ranked as the best performing fashion brand with a global brand value of $50bn. It sells high-priced, high-fashion clothing.

Global revenue in the fashion industry, 2021–2023

Year	2021	2022	2023
Global revenue ($ trillion)	1.72	1.85	1.96

Extract E

Shein and fast fashion

Fast fashion involves clothing businesses copying high-fashion designs, mass-producing them at a low cost, and getting them to market quickly. It encourages consumers to continually update their clothing and throw away old clothing due to low pricing and rapidly-changing fashion. There are many people who are critical of this trend.

5

Chinese business Shein is one of the leading businesses in fast fashion. It overtook Amazon as the most downloaded shopping app in the US in 2023. Shein uses a wide variety of suppliers in China to produce up to 10,000 new items of clothing a day to meet the demands of buyers.

Chick-fil-A to open in the UK

Chick-fil-A is a fast-food business, started by Truett Cathy in 1946, that sells fried chicken products. It is known for its high level of customer service and has won many awards in recognition of this.

Chick-fil-A plans to invest over $100m in the next 10 years to open new restaurants outside of the US. It aims to open its first restaurant in the UK in 2024 and a further five restaurants by 2025.

Number of fast-food restaurants in the US and UK in 2023

McDonald's	13,444	1,450

Extract H

Chick-fil-A's approach to employee welfare

Family was always important to Truett Cathy and this shaped his unique approach to business. He always maintained he was not in the chicken business but the people business.

Truett recognised the importance of closing on a Sunday so that employees could have the day off and spend time with their families. Today most of its restaurants close at 10 pm and do not open on a Sunday. This differs from many fast-food restaurants that open 24 hours, seven days a week.

5

Truett never went to college, which is the reason Chick-fil-A has given more than $35m in college scholarships to employees wishing to pursue higher education.

10

Chick-fil-A treats all employees with respect and aims to make the workplace a safe and enjoyable place to work. Employees can use paid hours away from work, known as Wellness Hours, to volunteer to help with community projects.
